An appeal has been taken by the defendants in the case of W. M. Gardner against The Hardy Able Oil Company in which Justice John H. Schroder gave the plaintiff a verdict of $14.00 and the defendant a verdict of four cents. The defendants claim an offset of $14.04.

Geo. E. Mercer has brought suit against the City of Bowling Green for the sum of $865.50 with interest from the 29th day of June, 1909. He claims that this amount of money is due him for material, labor and machinery furnished to Deckard & Son, as principal contractors, in the construction of Lehmann avenue. He alleges that on the third day of June, 1909, he filed, as required by law, an itemized and sworn statement of his account against the said Deckard & Son, with the board of public service of the city of Bowling Green and further filed with the county recorder a copy of an itemized sworn statement and that on the fourth day of June, the board of public service, through its clerk, Alex Williamson, served a copy of same upon Deckard & Son. He states that Deckard & Son did not dispute claim within five days after the notes were served and that after the 19th day of June, an estimate on the improvement of the street was made and payment fell due upon the contract, but that the City of Bowling Green did not pay plaintiff's claim when the estimate was subsequently made or within ten days thereafter.

TAXATION QUESTION

$300,000 or $400,000 per annum more, due to the growth of the State, its business and its corporations. I am afraid that we are all deceived into discussing the methods of raising taxes when we should be discussing methods of spending our income. I have heard much from the leaders of both parties about the various policies of raising revenues next year, but I have heard very little about their economical expenditure. Perhaps it is right that some method should be devised to restore that $750,000 and I believe myself, if you will permit a personal observation, that it is proper to do that. But when that is done, in my opinion, no greater revenue should be raised for the expenses of the State. The State is just like an individual. If it has an over-abundance of money and it comes easy it will be profligate in its expenditures. Upon the other hand, if it has a reasonable amount of money to take care of its proper needs, it will carefully guard its expenditures. We are more in danger to-day of launching upon a career of extravagance than we are of falling into bankruptcy. Let us remember in our discussion of this matter at home and in the legislature next winter, that taxing is simply a necessity of government and it should never be inflicted as a punishment. No matter how bad a corporation or trust may be, it should not be taxed on that account and no matter how good and beneficial an institution may appear, it should not be released upon that account."

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Sept. 10, '09.

Council met with all members present.

Messrs. Bowers and Fuller, trustees of the water works, appeared before the council. Mayor Klingler then stated that the object of the meeting with the water works board was to get a more definite understanding as to the extension of water line down Front street.

Mr. Bowers stated that the people living outside the village, down Front St., had extended the line at their own expense and that the board sold them water; that it was purely a business matter as some eight or nine consumers would be added to the water works. After considerable discussion and the reading of the law on the matter it was ordered that the council endorse the action of the water works board.

Sept. 17, '09.

Council met and on roll call all members were present.

Mr. Amon presented ordinance No. 297 for the assessing of abutting property per foot front for improving the streets by lighting, which ordinance was read and placed on its final passage.

Toledo Theaters

AT THE LYCEUM.

COLE AND JOHNSON.

Cole and Johnson, the famous colored comedians and song writers will be seen in their entertaining musical comedy, "The Red Moon." The production has played a Broadway engagement at the Majestic Theatre where it met with a most pleasing reception and favorable comments from the entire New York Press. The humor that is introduced in the comedy is of good quality, never tenderloinish, and that they are adepts in singing, as well as in writing of the negro songs of the time, is proved by the fact that many of their compositions though heard often before, assume an entirely different form, and consequently take on additional interest when they are sung as the authors intended. The large chorus of very pretty colored girls know how to sing the catchy and beautiful music, and they know well how to dance. The Red Moon is in three acts, and all are splendid examples for ornate stage settings, while the costumes will be entirely new designs of novelty and vivid colorings. No one may be afraid of hearing old gags and jokes for the humor is new.

This production comes to the Lyceum Theatre all next week with matinees Sunday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

"Buster Brown" comes next.

REMEMBERED JOKE

WHEN HE WAS SHOT.

The reunion of the 21st O. V. V. I. at this place recalls a humorous incident of the war, which illustrates how a brave man may take the funny view of a very serious situation.

When Col. Norton left for the front, at the head of the 21st O. V. V. I., he was handed a handsome flag by old Dr. Peck, of Perryburg. The old gentleman was a great joker and in somewhat blunt language, suggested that the Colonel would be shot in the back.

Col. Norton had not been under fire long before he was recognized to be, like Marshall Ney, "the bravest of the brave;" but at the Battle of Scarey Creek, West Virginia, while he was turning to cheer on his men, a minieball coursed through the air and landed on the exact spot where mother's slipper had made memorial visits before it. The Colonel, in apparent disgust, remembering the fun poked at him by Dr. Peck, exclaimed, "Shot in the back." His men claim that his remark was even more expressive.—Sentinel.

I know of others who have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and all praise them very highly.

MONEY IN CORN.

In Tarkio, Mo., is the largest single field of corn in the world. It covers 6,000 acres and is owned by David Rankin, a millionaire corn-raiser and cattle-feeder. Mr. Rankin is one of the richest farmers in America. His cultivators are drawn by Missouri mules and when they start 45 cultivators, two mules to each and one man astride a mule on each machine, the procession goes in a straight line across Mr. Rankin's fields six miles before making a turn. Rankin was one of the first to see that cattle-feeding was the real profit making work of the farmer, and that corn-raising was only an incident. He has figured out that it costs $63.25 to cultivate a 60-acre tract of corn—the yield being 41 1/2 bushels per acre, the cost being 14.6 cents per bushel.

BADLY INJURED

Fred Schumacher, the 15-year-old son of Wm. Schumacher, is lying in a critical condition as a result of being kicked by a horse Monday. The young man had been assisting in stone road work, driving a team. At noon Monday he put up his horse in his father's barn near Dowling. One of the animals suddenly let fly both feet at the boy and he received two terrific blows, one in the chest and the other beneath the jaw and the jaw bone was broken.

The young fellow was picked up in an unconscious condition and up until two this morning remained so, when he revived and now there are some hopes of his recovery.—Sentinel.
